COMMON COUNCIL PURCHASES NEW FIRE APPARATUS

Accepts Bid of American-La France Company for Two Pieces of Apparatus

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR WORK ON WASHBURN SCHOOL HERE

Ordinance Passed to Change Names of Several Streets

As a result of final action on the matter at Friday's session of the common council when two pieces of motor driven fire apparatus were purchased from the American-La France company, Central fire station is to be equipped this year with all motor vehicles.

A resolution was adopted by the council to accept the bid of the American-La France company for one motor driven two-wheel tractor aerial ladder truck and one triple combination pump and hose wagon for a consideration of $27,250. Alderman Mahoney, before voting against the resolution, explained that approximately the sum of $7,000 could be saved for the city in rebuilding the apparatus now on hand in accordance with the practice of fire departments in Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Bonding Ordinance
An ordinance was introduced for first and second reading providing for the issuance of bonds to the sum of $100,000 for permanent street improvement.

Through passage of a resolution by the council bids for work on the Washburn school were accepted as follows: Furnishing hardware, Adam Kroeber company, $1,250.43; light fixtures and installation, John Pappenfuss, $1,118; mastic floors, Thomas Moulding Brick company, $6,148; varnishes, $2,150; accordion doors, $1,040; Stevens floor sanding system, $500; and changing floors, $155, all awarded to P. R. Schwab & Company, contractors.

An ordinance was passed providing that the name of Mitchell street be changed to Thirtieth street. Sewer street to West avenue, Dayton street to Fourteenth street, Freeman street to Freeman place, and Everett street to Fifteenth street. It was explained that these streets, beyond Mormon Center road are merely extensions of those to which the names were changed.

Licenses Re-referred
A resolution was passed instructing the city clerk to advertise for bids for the official city jobs printing for the coming year. The requests of class "B" and class "A" beverage permits of C. E. Engelbrecht and Emil Souley were ordered re-referred back to the committee for further investigation.

The council passed a resolution to purchase a new Harley-Davidson motorcycle for the police department and another calling for the installation of a police signal light on the viaduct.

Estimates of street paving jobs were presented and ordered referred to committees.

DECISION IN RODD CASE EXPECTED TO BE MADE TUESDAY

Opinion in Milwaukee City Attorney Election Case Will also be Filed

MADISON, Wis.—Decision in the case of Hiram Rodd, sheriff of Outagamie county, who is asking the Wisconsin court to nullify the order of Gov. J. J. Mahoney removing him from office for refusal to obey an executive pardon order, is expected when the Wisconsin Supreme court hands down decisions on Tuesday, March 11.

This is the only matter of statewide importance which is expected to be determined by the court at its March sitting. Opinion will probably be filed in the case of Clifford Williams, former city attorney of Milwaukee, against the city election commission. A decision has already been given, however, the court holding that an election for city attorney must be held this year.

Arguments in the Rodd case were heard in January, and a decision looked for when the court met on February 7. Final determination of the case is now expected Tuesday.

A number of decisions of minor importance are to be made.

FIRST BOY SCOUT HIKE A SUCCESS

Editors Note: Toland Palmer won a Scout knife for writing the best report on the hike, which follows:

My friend C. Palmer, Troop No. 18, on January 21, 1935, took 18 and three of the First Methodist church Boy Scouts took their first hike.

About twelve boys and Scoutmaster Lyons met promptly at 9 o'clock at Elder's drug store. We all put on skis and pulled our large toboggan, brought by one of the boys, and started out. We met two more boys at Elder's drug store and from there we went out State road.

It was a fine morning, the air was crisp, about ten degrees above zero. It was just the kind of a morning that makes one feel like doing something. We walked a natural path until we turned off the road at Sam Hyde's farm, there we floundered through a slightly unbroken road which led across a frozen creek and up through a farm yard. We halted there for a moment, we saw a fox and passed on up the field. We looked up a hill and there, towering up at the top of the hill was the large ski jump which was to be used for the tournament during the winter carnival. It was a large wooden structure that was half way up the hill. At the top of the hill was a scaffold platform about twenty feet high. The slide started there and went down at an angle of forty-five degrees at which the person is sliding down.

We started back about 1 o'clock for some of us had to play basketball at 2 o'clock. On the way back we came to a small hill that attracted our attention. We knew it would be a jump across the road. Three or four of us went up and put our skis. The first one fell on the way down.

Why Ekern?

COMES Herman Ekern, long of Chicago, but once a political power in Wisconsin, to again figure in a La Follette political slate. He is the senator's nominee for attorney general, and as "two heads are better than one," it is worthy of notice that he helped the senator to make the nomination.

Why Ekern?

Perhaps it will be said that Ekern was chosen purely for his qualifications. He does not lack them. He made a great record as speaker of the assembly, when important legislation was in the making. As insurance commissioner his record was excellent. Those were war-like days, and perhaps his early training stood him in hand during the historic incident in which he barricaded the doors of the insurance department and defied former Governor McGovern to oust him.

No doubt these things figured in the selection of Ekern, for Senator La Follette had an especially strong reason for wanting a strong man. And the senator's strong reason for wanting a strong man was the reason why Mr. Ekern was the particular strong man who appealed to him.

The La Follette organization has the reputation of being wet. Whether Wisconsin as a whole is wet or dry today one cannot say, for there has been no recent test, but shrewd politicians do not entirely discount the strength of the dry forces. Governor Blaine is counted wet, and with the exception of Lieutenant Governor Comings, there has been no outstanding dry in the La Follette official roster. Undoubtedly it was deemed advisable to have on the ticket some man whose presence there would appeal strongly to the dries. Many La Follette men have expected the senator to bridge this chasm by supporting Lancelot A. Gordon for secretary of state.

Now, if Mr. Gordon were to be counted out, there was more than ever a necessity for a strong dry, because the dries would resent the rejection of Gordon. Moreover, there was another complication. As president of the Luther league, Mr. Gordon had won a high place among Lutherans and had gained a wide acquaintance among Scandinavians throughout the state. Therefore, in discarding him, Senator La Follette undoubtedly felt the necessity of finding a dry Norwegian, strong enough to offset any defection which the loss of Gordon would cost him both amongst Scandinavians and among dries in general.

Undoubtedly La Follette politicians figure that Mr. Ekern will fill the bill. His name is prominently coupled with prohibition history in Wisconsin. He is well known among the Scandinavians in the state. His record can be figured as an asset. It may even be argued that his strength is so great that Mr. Gordon's friends will not dare give political effect to any resentment which they may feel.

Looking the thing up one side and down another, the choice of Mr. Ekern appears to have been as strong a backfire as could have been started against the by no means negligible Gordon sympathizers.

The Current Shifts

IS Russia going to take America's place as the melting pot of the nations? Joseph Remyen thinks so. He is the immigration expert of the Cleveland Trust Company. Remyen says the Russia of the future will stand in the same relation to the European immigrant as the United States in the nineteenth century. Two important circumstances that might bring this change are the European peasant's dislike of prohibition and his choice of open-air landed life in Russia in preference to the congestion, tenements and mill-life of our country. If the tide of immigration refuses to flow our way again, later on when the bars are let down, it will become extremely difficult to find any one to do the hard labor of factory production, road building, ditch digging and railroad construction. The native-born American wants to work with brain instead of muscle. He wants a white collar job. Let George do the dirty work.

A bitter pill to swallow, this—that America may cease to be the world's magnet. Yet it seems bound to come eventually, though possibly not in our day. But a century from now, maybe less, the El Dorado of riches and freedom sought by emigrants may be Russia, Siberia, Brazil and Australia. Australia and Brazil, in particular, are likely to become leading nations of the world. Our vanishing forests are typical of the way we are emptying ourarder of natural resources.

The world current of immigration changes every few centuries. Sometimes the shifting is due to exhaustion of natural resources, sometimes to geographical or climatic changes. What now is the Mediterranean Sea was a fertile valley from 10,000 to 40,000 years ago, so the story goes. In that valley lived a race of prehistoric men, barbarous by modern standards, yet probably convinced among themselves that they had the last word in civilizations. The Atlantic Ocean broke through, sending into the fertile plain a river that widened into a sea. The inhabitants, migrated—probably scattering into Africa, Arabia and southern Europe. Since then, the world has had thousands of racial migratory movements, including the westward wanderings of the yellow Mongols. The shifting of peoples goes on forever.

Now that "Uncle" is retiring, who remembers Joe Cannon's stogies? Where there was smoke there was fire.

John D.'s granddaughter will marry a riding teacher. Why not a chauffeur and boost the gas business?

Lent is that time during which some people swear off the same things they swore off on New Year.

It might reduce colds some if the beads our dear girls wear to dances were made of wool.

Peggy Joyce says the next man she marries will be poor. Before or after taking, Peg?

A high school paper claims flappers are a necessity. Necessity, we add, knows no law.

Some people favoring the thirteen-month year think it will give them longer to loaf.

Most advocates of light beer and light wine are making light of what they really want.

The bobbed-hair fad may be growing; but the bobbed hair isn't.

Prosperity is still around the corner outside the high rent district.

A little flirting now and then often marries the best of men.

Taking a girl at face value means several dollars a week.

Spring is here when the Georgia peach crop gets killed.

The greatest danger of jaywalking is jay-driving.

To tax or not to tax, that's the bonus question.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

At a meeting of the permanent committee on tuberculosis at the city hall this evening plans will be laid for an educational campaign to be conducted on behalf of the proposed county sanitarium. This campaign will deal for the most part with the economic phase of the tuberculosis problem. An effort will be made to show that even from a dollars and cents standpoint a tuberculosis sanitarium will pay.

John Taylor of the La Crosse police force is today celebrating his twenty-fifth anniversary of continuous service as an officer. Mr. Taylor is now desk sergeant. He is one of the oldest men on the force but is still hale and hearty.

The La Crosse Gas and Electric company will increase its producing capacity twenty-five percent, extend its gas mains in every part of the city, build a holding tank on the north side, and take other steps to better its service and increase its patronage. By this increase in patronage the cost to the consumer can probably be lowered.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The Salzer family of La Crosse has purchased a tract of half a billion feet of standing pine in Oregon and will erect a saw mill upon it.

The city council may decide to purchase an aerial ladder for use in the fire department. A model of the ladder is on exhibition at the central station and has been inspected by a large number of persons. Several aldermen have examined the apparatus and are favorably impressed with it.

All records for early plowing have been broken by John Holly, a farmer in the town of Hamilton. Mr. Holly brought word to the city yesterday that he finished plowing Thursday and that he expected to commence planting early next week.

Charles Kahler, a resident of La Crosse since it was scarcely more than an Indian village and one of the city's oldest residents, died at the home of his son, John Kahler, 333 Caladonia street, yesterday. Mr. Kahler was born in Saxony in 1820 and came here about 1850. He came to La Crosse when the Milwaukee road first entered La Crosse. He was employed as car repairer on that road.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

A cigar factory has been started in Mindoro. The old Eagle Bakery in North La Crosse has been leased by Henry Orton and he will soon reopen it for business.

A Presbyterian church is to be erected on the corner of Clinton and Berlin streets this year. The building on Rose street now used as a church will be disposed of. The ground on which the new church will be built was purchased from Mr. Goddard.

Messrs. Boynton and Taylor are shipping lumber to North Greenfield, a station on the Northwestern line, where they will open a lumber yard. They will also open and operate a lumber yard in Bangor.

The worst storm of the season set in yesterday morning and did not stop till noon today. The snow was blown about and piled up in drifts. Telephone and telegraph wires are broken down and business is stopped to a great extent. Passenger trains are late and freight trains have been abandoned in many places. The storm extended from Manitoba to Kansas.

Sour Grapes

By MARTHA MCCULLOUGH WILLIAMS

"Love is the law of my being, my real life, indeed," Miss Maitland sighed, unconsciously to Professor Grant, lifting her eyes, then instantly dropping them as though abashed by such approach to self-revelation. She was, by estate, a spinster of uncertain age thirty in her own rose-lighted parlor, something far beyond that in plain, unequivocal daylight. By profession non-lending was her specialty. She was more than rich and in the very forefront of clubdom she had splendid chances for her favorite pastime.

But like John Gilpin's wife, she had a frugal mind. Other folk might extravagantly dine and make house-guests of visiting celebrities—the town went in for culture up to its elbows—but she confined her efforts to afternoon receptions; they were too elaborate to be classed as frugal.

Since she had her pick of the lions the receptions were not too many, three at most in a season, but they gave her liberty to be among those present wherever celebrity was in view or hearing in other houses. Her guest list was highly catholic; being a highbrow reformer to the bone, she made a point of ringing in now and again some one of her tradespeople—milliner, caterer, florist, whatnot—and showed them a fine high courtesy that made the very rich stare.

She belonged, you see, to the holders of unearned income—there were three generations between her and the ancestral blacksmith whose shop had grown up into a big pie factory. Of course, the folk who knew her saw in these casual guests proof of her sincere democracy, her excellent heart—no less. But there were captious ones who sneered that she had more substantial reasons than such invitations were paid for in discounts and special privileges. But they were nothing compared to the unbelieving multitude which was wont to say of her favorite platitude, "Love is the law of my being," that it was gospel truth, since Miss Maitland loved nobody but herself. Her money, of course being impersonal, ranked above humanity.

Orphaned ten years at least, and without brother or sister, she lived alone in a grand, rather gloomy house set in a wide yard at the top of the avenue—the town's finest street. Elsiebeth Cameron, her cousin companion of course did not count. A small, meek, faithful person, lacking either shelter, with barely enough income to clothe herself scantily, and neither training nor opportunity for work, she was Cousin Anna's willing and grateful slave, offering herself joyously at need in the other woman's service. She got in return a not unkindly tolerance, many half-worn garments and a sort of moonlight social position.

Cousin Anna was glad to have Elsiebeth included in invitations, but admit in so arranging things that they could rarely be accepted. Elsiebeth, you see, was like the paying guests—with a difference, that she paid as sign manual of Miss Maitland's philanthropy. This, in addition to being servant, seamstress in extraordinary, errand girl, maid and overseer of the servants, was no bad return.

Elsiebeth's heart sank sometimes at thought of her future if Cousin Anna should marry. But she bravely masked her tremors and made the small jests as to woovers her benefactress parried under, Miss Maitland had truly had beaux a plenty—but for the most part they had evidently been captives to her rent roll and bank account rather than her charms. Despite a hawkish nose and light, thin-lipped mouth, she was not ill-looking in full regalia. Stately things suited her almost oriental darkness—so did the glow and flash of jewels, and the softening of rich fur. Also her background set off all these things. So it is not strange she had rather taken the visiting professor by storm—he was tallish, lean and good tempered, a widower of long standing, and verging now upon forty-five—the perilous years of indifferency for the male of the species, running thence to the coffin lid.

Likewise he had impressed Miss Maitland. She was weary of single life, of queening it in her provincial environment. The atmosphere of a big college appealed strongly to her imagination. So she had given her intending suitors grace for grace, sigh for sigh, and was fully persuaded to accept him when next he came to town—a matter still indefinite in date but sure to happen.

The two of them made a fine, stately pair in the dining room. It was richly furnished—dark carving, rare rugs, much burnished silver and gleaming glass, to say nothing of a fine antique mantel and really creditable pictures hung sparsely above the windows.

Just now it was at its best—candle lit with a long table running cat-a-cornered, and all too crowded with plates of the best. It was decorated with fruit—the centerpiece a mound of heathsome grapes, gleaming, translucent, opaque line, in the cross-light.

Somewhat the grapes fascinated Grant. He had eaten a lusty, very greasy luncheon after the morning lecture, washing it down with thirst-provoking liquids, and punctuated the drinking with olives. So when the hostess excused herself at some urgent beckoning he set down the heaping plate which had been thrust into his hands, plucked a grape, ate it with such satisfactory results he ate on and on, quite oblivious of staring eyes all about. Presently, his thirst somewhat slaked, he moved toward the further end of the long room, where, slightly ambushed by portiers, he stood examining narrowly a picture just above him. The portiers masked an open door that led to the butler's pantry, where were all the reserve bottles. Voices came through it, hushed but distinct. "One was a growl, the other a piping note, almost a whine. 'The boss voice said volitionally, "You feel her she's got to pay. I'm clean tired of all this shoe-gazing. Them grapes is worth at of twenty-five dollars! You hear me, I guess she does pay right off the real she'll be a sorry woman."

PRINCESS MARY'S WEDDING

"And I do it at a loss—here, I mean, I do it at a loss—off wholesale she will insist on—and putting my best fruitless for show-off. Tell me the proper being here is so much, Lord, she makes me sick—and all it stands in is he is in! Laughed at by the rest here. They know old Dick Jackson ain't no social ornament; also and further that Miss Ann Maitland's as close as—as the bark to a tree. Now, here's the word with the bark on it: I'll be paid for the deceptions of that fellow with the one-eyed spectacles, else I'll eat the truth to everybody that comes inside the shop tomorrow."

"Nobody could have eaten all those beautiful grapes," declared the portier. The boss growled back: "No, One Eye couldn't; a hint the full of 'em—but with his pickles and choosin' he slyt every bunch—I got proof—my head waiter seen him and took notice. Tell that yer Cousin Ann, Mr. I'm through."

Heavy footsteps followed, with a chorus of soft sobbing. Prof. Grant slipped outside—to see a slim, small creature in a soft blue frock, her face buried in her hands, tears raining through her fingers, dozing over a large platter of salad and shaking pleasantly. Somehow he found courage to take away the hands, look into dejected blue eyes and say things that dried the tears in them. Unaccountably he led the owner of them away to the living room. Miss Maitland found them there an hour later, quite oblivious of all the rest of the world.

JEWISH RELIEF QUOTA IS COMING IN QUITE RAPIDLY

From Every Quarter of the Country are Received Encouraging Reports

NEW YORK.—With the end of the campaign only a month away, David A. Brown, chairman of the $14,000,000 national appeal for the aid of the starving Jews of eastern and central Europe, has just submitted to his advisory committee a report which indicates that the complete quota will be forthcoming.

"The appeal which was initiated by the American Jewish relief committee is now a united effort in which the central and people's Jewish relief committees are actively participating. It is a unified and well-organized attempt on the part of the entire Jewish community to fulfill its obligation to the suffering Jews of Europe," said Mr. Brown Saturday.

From every quarter of the country come reports of quotas equalled or exceeded. Chicago set the example by doubling its quota of $150,000 and then proceeding to raise $1,500,000, practically the entire quota for the state of Illinois.

She report also embodies two telegrams from St. Louis, the first stating that $180,000 was raised in the evening in that city, and the second that $25,000 had been added to that sum within two days and the workers pledged themselves to continue until St. Louis had raised $400,000. "The quota," Mr. Brown continues, "for St. Louis was originally $250,000 and my latest information is that they have passed that by a very wide margin."

Maine started its first day with 25 per cent of its quota raised. Indianapolis raised $100,000 the opening night of its campaign. Prior to that meeting there had been contributions of $25,000 there.

The reports from the south are equally encouraging. Virginia has voluntarily increased its quota from $100,000 to $150,000.

FEBRUARY STORMS PROVIDE WORK FOR MANY IN WISCONSIN

Over Four Thousand Workers Placed in Month by State Employment Bureaus

MADISON, Wis.—The heavy snow storms of February gave employment to a large number of casual workers, the industrial commission reported Saturday. During that month, the eleven free public employment offices referred 5,817 applicants to positions, and were advised by employers, according to the commission, that 4,275 of these men had been hired.

Registrations for work totaled 7,713 for the month and calls for help 5,781. Both calls for help and placements exceeded those of February, 1921, when there were 4,865 orders and 3,334 verified placements.

Woods work is said to have fallen off greatly during the month, due to the storms. Calls for farm help have been coming, the commission said, in great numbers, but with the exception of Madison and Green Bay, every office reports a surplus of farm hands.

A slight increase in the number of calls for factory help is noted. The men taken on in factories are reported to have been practically all old employees, and the result that few calls for additional help have been received by the employment offices.

"TOO WISE WIVES"—RIVOLI
Creating a highly favorable impression, Lois Weber's new photoplay, "Too Wise Wives," turns into the last lap of its run at the Rivoli today. The story treats of a woman who marries because of her necessity for money. Her old sweetheart weils because he is piqued at her desertion. His old flame, after her marriage, makes covert advances to her former sweetheart and the latter, although happily married, narrowly misses being caught in the trap she sets for him.

The photoplay is staged in superb settings. The marble home of a New York millionaire on the Pacific Coast was used. Rooms direct from the Place Vendome and the Rue De La Paix are worn by the stars. "Too Wise Wives" will appeal to women if only because of the magnificent robes displayed by Miss Windsor and Mona Lisa.

The gowns are seen to best advantage in the vast marble halls of the home chosen for the filming of the drama. Vases, bronzes, tapestries and carved furniture of priceless value adorn the home. Lois Weber believes in filming her plays in real homes. The wisdom of her policy was never better illustrated than in "Too Wise Wives." Louis Calhern, leading man, did capable work as also did Phillips Smalley.

Wm. S. HART — MAJESTIC
There are screen heroines who appeal to one's sympathies from the moment they appear in a picture; there are others who seem to grow upon one as the story progresses; some few, unfortunately, who never succeed in enlisting the sympathies fully despite their hardest efforts.

Jane Novak, the charming heroine of and leading woman in William S. Hart's new picture, "Three Word Brand," which closes tonight at the Majestic Theatre, is of the first named type. Miss Novak was born in St. Louis and was educated in a convent of that city. Her first recognition as screen player came when William S. Hart chose her for "Selfish Yates," as his leading woman. She then did the feminine lead in "The Tiger Man" with Mr. Hart. Later she appeared opposite Charles Ray in "The Claws of the Hunt" and "A Nine O'Clock Town."

Miss Novak is a fine type of the American girl, simple and wholesome, demure and winsome. Her home life reflects her screen personality for vice-versa. Great things are expected of her because she is developing new strength and power with every production in which she appears and the screen future of the actress is assured. She has an exceptionally strong role in "Three Word Brand."

RIVIERA SUNDAY
"Turn to the Right," the most popular comedy-drama of the stage, whose appeal was testified to by millions of theatre-goers, has been transferred to the screen and will be seen Sunday at the Riviera Theatre.

It tells the story of a country boy who, while serving a prison term unjustly, becomes acquainted with two crooks. Returning home he finds the marriage about to be foreclosed by the village sheriff. With the aid of his two crook pals a way is found to beat out the miser while the influence of the aged mother leads the two crooks into love and a better life.

It is presented by a notable cast headed by Alice Terry. Playing opposite her is Jack Mulhall, known on both stage and screen.

STRAND SUNDAY
How a man can play a dual role in life, even in a small community, is interestingly and ably demonstrated in the picture story of "Devil Dog Dawson," the coming film attraction at the Strand Theatre on Sunday.

However, the story plot of "Devil Dog" Dawson shows how a man may successfully live a dual role in even such a small community as a North-western camp.

F. J. DOMKE BUYS SITE FOR A GARAGE ON WATER STREET

SPARTA, Wis.—Sparta is to have another modern garage. F. J. Domke has purchased the lot, 7x120 feet, from Hoppman and Naimier, adjoining their implement establishment, on South Water Street. Plans are being drawn for a new building to be erected there as soon as material can be gotten on the grounds. The garage will be of brick or tile, and a steam heating plant will be in connection.

A deal was closed at Tomah in which Harry Beckman of Sparta, and John Ballier of Augusta, became owners of the Burlin pharmacy at Tomah. The new firm have taken charge of the store at once. Mr. Beckman will not move his family to Tomah until after school closes in June. He has been at Tomah the past week helping to take an inventory of the stock of the store.

NORMAL SCHOOL DEFEATS OSHKOSH FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

BEATEN IN FIRST HALF LOCALS STAGE COMEBACK TO WIN

Post-Season Game at Oshkosh Friday Gives La Crosse Undisputed Title

CONTEST STAGED BEFORE RECORD CROWD OF FANS

Bleachers Collapse But all Escape Without Injury

By virtue of defeating Oshkosh normal 20 to 14 in the second game of the post-season championship series, the La Crosse Normal school retains its title of undefeated basketball champions of the Normal school basketball conference. The first game, played here last Tuesday night, resulted in a 27 to 21 victory for Koeler's men.

The game at Oshkosh was played before a record crowd of spectators who were wildly enthusiastic in rooting for their team. Several La Crosse people, Normal school students and others, made the trip to witness the contest. In the excitement before the game started a section of the temporary bleachers which had been built on the floor of the gym to accommodate the increased attendance, gave way but no one was injured.

The game was especially rough in the first half, resembling more a football game than a basketball contest. The main object of the Oshkosh defense seemed to keep big "Bippo" Poscovec out of the game as much as possible.

Poscovec scored the first point for La Crosse with a free throw, and Captain Reay made three points with a goal from the field. Oshkosh was unable to penetrate the La Crosse defense during the first half. This was due to the close guarding of Stoneman and Eltinger, who played a wonderful defensive game throughout. The score at the end of the first half was 5 to 4 in favor of Oshkosh.

After being outpointed in the first half, the La Crosse quintet came back strong and topped their opponents 16 to 9 in the second period. The La Crosse shooting became more effective in the last frame while their defense kept tightened up, forcing Oshkosh to resort to long shots. Kolf and Devine each scored two field goals from long range.

It was anybody's game until the last whistle had blown, and the play was so even throughout that the large crowd was kept in an uproar at all times.

Lineup:
La Crosse—Captain Reay and Vondrashek, forwards; Poscovec, center; Stoneman and Eltinger, guards.
Oshkosh—Bralscher and Pugh, forwards; Wilson, center; Kolf and Devine, guards.

Scoring—Field goals, Vondrashek 3, Reay 2, Poscovec 2, Stoneman 1, Kolf 2, Devine 2, Wilson 1.
Free throws—Vondrashek 2, Poscovec 2, Pugh 2, Kolf 2.

BADGERS MEET IOWA IN TRACK THIS YEAR FIRST IN HISTORY

Meet Marks Resumption of Relations Between Schools Severed in 1917

BY BOB DUNN

For the first time in the history of athletics at Wisconsin, the Badger track team will meet the representatives of Iowa university on the track in a dual indoor meet in the gymnasium annex at Madison on Saturday night.

The dual meet will mark a resumption of dual athletic relations with Iowa, relations which were severed when the teams ceased meeting in football in 1917 because of the week competition which had been furnished by Iowa aggregations.

While Wisconsin is expecting a win in the dual meet this week, Coach Jones is anticipating no easy task, because of the good record made by the Iowa aggregation in the Illinois relays last week.

The Iowa track squad is now coached by George Bresnahan, who until last fall was cross country coach at Wisconsin. Bresnahan is a former University of Wisconsin track star and is popular on the Badger campus.

The conference was called by Gov. J. A. O. Prews, N. J. Holmberg, state commissioner of agriculture, and J. E. Reed, president of the Minnesota farm bureau federation.

LA CROSSE HIGHS WIN AND LOSE IN 2 WARM DEBATES

Home Team Wins from Portage. While Affirmative Team Loses to Mauston

The Negative debate team of the local high school yesterday triumphed over the affirmative team from Portage in a very hot debate on the question: "Resolved, that the Reduction of National Armaments to a Status of Adequate Police Forces within a Period of Ten Years is Practicable." This debate was judged 100 percent for La Crosse and 95 percent for Portage. The speakers for La Crosse, Stoen, Naegele, and Larson put home some arguments that the visitors were unable to scratch in the rebuttal.

La Crosse's affirmative team, composed of Linderfeld, Haddad, and Peterson who debated the same question at Mauston last night, met with a hard defeat when the judge credited Mauston with 92 percent and La Crosse 80 percent.

It is not yet known what teams will go to Madison to contest for the state championship.

TEMP CHALLENGES HUEBNER FOR CITY TITLE CUE CONTEST

Leonard Temp is the next La Crosse cue artist to attempt to wrest the city title from Ray Huebner, who recently defeated Howard Armstrong in a 300-point match at the Bodega club.

Temp will meet Huebner in a 250-point match to be played either at the Bodega club or at the S. & H. Recreation rooms, or one block at each place. The time is to be mutually decided upon.

Tommy O'Connor, who broke fall to keep from being hung, was afraid he couldn't stand the suspense.

How Little a CALORIC PIPELESS FURNACE COSTS

- It costs less than a good piano.
- Costs less than stoves required to heat the building.
- Costs less than a good home water system.
- Costs less than a good home lighting system.
- Costs less than twice the price of a good washing machine.
- Costs less than twice the price of a phonograph.

The Caloric pays every dollar of its cost in a few years in the fuel it saves. Protects the family's health and saves doctor bills. Saves the labor of carrying coal, kindling and ashes through the house. Keeps your rooms clean—saves expense of frequent redecorating and repainting. Saves wear on rugs and frequent cleaning. Gives you more room. Adds to the value of your property—increases its salability.

The Caloric supplies healthful heat to every room, from one central fire in the cellar, and with less trouble than tending a single stove. The Caloric guarantees your satisfaction or money back.

Figured on the basis of service and satisfaction rendered, the Caloric gives greater value for less money than any other home convenience.

See us for quick Caloric installation. The fuel saved this winter will pay you big interest on the investment.

HIGH SCHOOL TO BATTLE SPARTA IN FINAL GAME TODAY

Contest Will End Activities of Team Until District Tournament Next Week

Tonight will be the last scheduled game for the Red and Black losers of the local high school when they play their final game with Sparta here. This game, with the exception of the tournament next week will be the end of high school basketball for three of the local players: Holley, Esch and Tobias. It is thought by many that the game to-night will be a walk-a-way for La Crosse, but Sparta will no doubt put up a better fight than is expected in order to keep fresh the old rivalry between the two schools. Keozan will most likely give the second team a taste of this game as he wants to keep the first squad in good condition for the tournament. The high school students will, however, turn out in full force tonight to beat the team before plunging into the hard games of the tournament next week.

WILL HAYS GOES TO WORK — A LOCAL RAILROAD WRECK — AL LANGENBACH'S FISH STORY

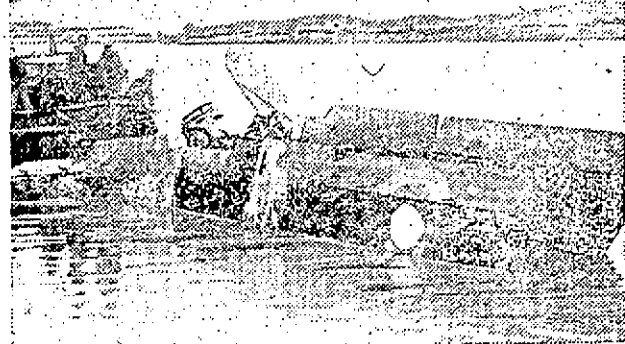

MAY ETHERIDGE was a London chorus girl. She married Lord Edward Fitzgerald, who had no money and was heir to none. His brother, the Duke of Leinster, recently died and he succeeded to the title, being the premier duke, marquess and earl of Ireland. The former chorus girl now presides over a mansion and an estate of 11,000 acres in the county of Kildare.

ADD SIGNS OF SPRING—Mr. and Mrs. Al Langenbach are heading home from Florida, preceded by the above picture of a minnow which Al claims he caught. Detractors who insist it is a stuffed fish are invited to meet the train on which Al and the Missus arrive Saturday, and tell it to his face.

WEN THE SOUTHEASTERN backed into a Burlington switching crew's caboose in the south end of town last Saturday. It looked as if the Southeastern coach wanted to take a ride. But it couldn't be done. The caboose wouldn't stand for it, and just opened out in protest, as you see.

ARMY FIERS ESCAPE DEATH BY INCHES—Lieutenant Harold Beaton and Private Sheridan Cook, of Bolling Field, District of Columbia, are alive today by inches. That is the distance they missed the sea wall of the Anacostia River when their Delataviland plane fell.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Princess Olga, oldest daughter of Prince Nicholas of Greece, and Crown Prince Christian Frederick of Denmark has just been announced by King Christian and Queen Alexandra. The prince is 23, the princess 19.

THE FINGER-PRINT SIGNATURE—The finger print is now recognized as a signature by the Postal Savings bank. This girl was the first to affix her print to a deposit slip in the Milwaukee postoffice.

SWEET SPIRITS OF PARIS—Now they have public perfumeries along the boulevards of Paris. Look at the street gamin getting his hankie full to take a whiff to his best girl.

"RACE-TRACK TOM"—Tom Starkey, once contender for Jeffries' title, is now following the races. How he is at the track at Tijuana, Mexico, watching one of his string of horses in a try-out.

OUTDOES GEORGE W.—George Washington crossed the Delaware once. Ben Gandy, ferry boat pilot, has crossed it 500,000 times in 33 years.

MARY HEARS THE NEWS—Mary's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, relays the news of Mary's trial to her and Doug. Mrs. Cora Wilkinson, play broker, lost the suit against Mary for $108,000, claimed as fee for obtaining a contract.

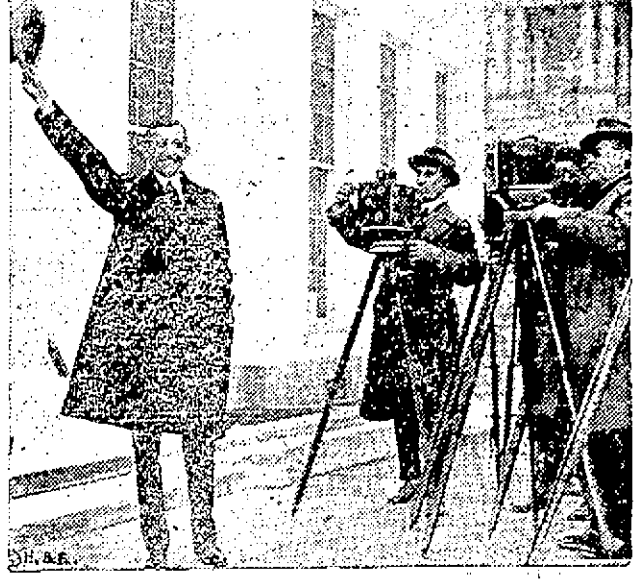

END OF 3500-MILE HIKE—Percy J. Hinton, his wife and their daughter, Marguerite, two, snapped as they walked into Philadelphia. That ended a 3500-mile hike from California on which Hinton says he hunted work. He said one man put down his Bible to kick him off the premises.

A FENCE CLIMBER CAN'T RETAIN DIGNITY—The fellow climbing a fence can't look very dignified even if he is a potential king. This is the Prince of Wales scaling the blockade around the wild elephants at Mysore, India.

HIS HATS OFF TO THE MOVIES—It's "Goodbye, Washington, Hello, Movies!" for Will Hays as he waves farewell after attending his last cabinet meeting. The former postmaster general is now the "Landis" of the movies.

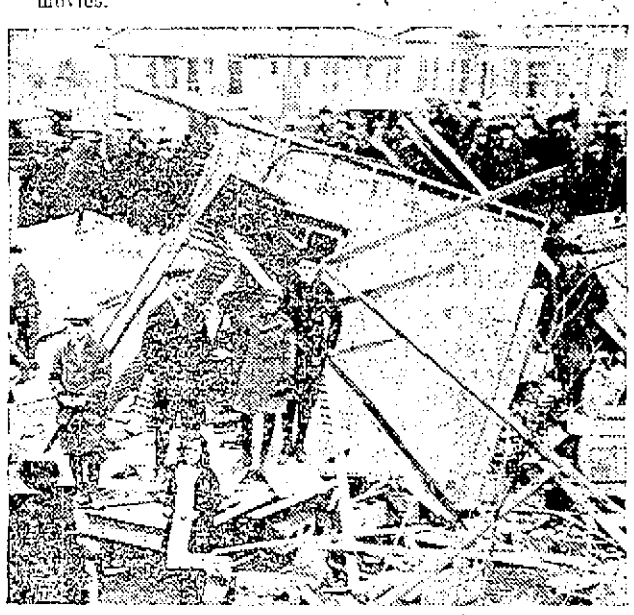

THREE ESCAPED THIS—Three occupants of a house at Tulsa, Okla., escaped death, although an explosion blew the roof sixty feet away.

MRS. LAURA BENNETT, New York, has issued a challenge to meet any woman of 150 pounds in the squared arena, but no one has accepted it.

IN HOLD-UP CASE—Jessie Myrtle Bates, 25, with holding a revolver to the neck of a taxi-driver, forcing him to carry a man who held up a store at Camillus, N. Y.

BERLIN SEEKS STYLE LEADERSHIP—Berlin clothing designers are seeking to establish the German criterion as the standard of the world's fashions. The above frocks are late creations. On the left is Mrs. Ella Bibb, society beauty, posing as a model.

Car Shortage

The large number of orders for Fords for immediate delivery received within the last few days has made such a hole in our stock that we are now unable to make immediate deliveries on some models.

This buying response of the people to the first fine weather we have had this year confirms our conviction that there will be a bigger demand for Fords this year than ever. If you are planning on getting a Ford next April or May, don't wait until April or May to place your order.—Do it now and assure yourself of April or May delivery.

A Ford for a Dollar a Day

A great many Fords are sold on the partial payment plan,—one third of the cost of the car is paid at the time of delivery and the balance of the cost is split into 12 equal monthly payments. You can buy any type of Ford car, open, closed, or commercial on this basis, and the transaction involves no publicity, embarrassment or disagreeable details.

The down payment on a plain touring car is $148.48.

With Ford Prices at their present low point and this opportunity to split up the cost into monthly payments extending over a full year, nobody with anything like average means should deny themselves the healthy outdoor pleasure that a Ford provides. Come in and let us explain this plan to you.

Now Is the Time to buy yourself that little old last year's car for next summer's picnics and fishing trips. We have a large assortment of all models of used Fords and several other makes, including Dodge, Overland, Studebaker, and Cadillac.

The prices are extremely low, for of course the price of used Fords went down with the price of the new ones. It is astonishing how good a used Ford you can buy for less than $200.

Take advantage of this big assortment and low prices, and get your used car now. By the time the driving season opens the assortment will not be so good and prices may be higher.
